

Remote Education Project Propo

播种者SowerChina - 2016.06.22

Summary

In our three years of volunteer teaching, we notice that most students in remote areas have little concrete concept for their future or exact pictures of professional life. Under the current education mode in China, students are limited to develop comprehensively. Moreover, it is difficult for Sower China's short-term teaching program that runs for three weeks per year to make a long-term effect on our students. Therefore, we plan to project a remote video teaching program for our target junior high schools in the following years, as a continuation of our short-term teaching program.

Target Group

白果镇中心校六年级以上有兴趣的学生。

Speakers

- Inspiring role models for students. Storytellers with life advice. They can be from accomplished scholars and students from top universities in China, to successful and well-educated individuals in various fields.

Goal

- On personal interest: Communicate with students to find their personal interests and highlights.
- Vocational Preparation: Establish a positive image of professional life, a clearer vision of their future, and a role model for their lives; Inspire the students with a more open-minded worldview and bring them an alternative perspective of life.

Predicted Effects

Students will gain a deeper understanding of their personal ability and interest as well as a broader knowledge of society through one year of remote education classes. They will establish a goal for their high school education, which will bring forth a clearer and more suitable direction for them to work on.

形式Content Design

- Teaching
 - Mainly in videos of talks and online conversations for answering questions.

- Theme changes monthly. Students should pose questions based on the theme.

- Getting Feedback

- Students can provide feedbacks of the course through letters
- Feedbacks should include their thoughts on the course and expectations of future classes

- Recommended Course Hours

- Once or twice per week, can be accommodated to the school' s schedule after communication.
- The project will start from the new school year.